A word from Panditji

This Saath Patri is for Kabir and Ananya, husband and wife since November 2019. I read it the way it is read at home: what fits easily between you, where you rub, and what helps.

In one line: your gunas come out low, which is a point to tend and not a verdict. The pressure on your bond comes from outside it, and the bond itself is not fragile.

Right now both of you run periods of Jupiter, and Saturn is moving slowly over both your Moons. It is a slow, demanding time, and a good time to stay close.

May you read these pages side by side, and find in them a little more patience for each other.

The milan: gunas and Mangal dosha

Your two Moons score 17 out of 36 in the 36 gunas, just below the traditional minimum of 18. That is a point to be careful about, not a verdict. It is a reason to read the rest of this patri closely.

First, what comes easily. Yoni is full, so everyday closeness between you is read as an easy, warm fit. Nadi, the heaviest of the gunas, is full too. It is read as two different constitutions, and that counts as a good balance between you.

Now, what to tend. Vasya is under half, so you may each want to lead in the same matters, or each wait for the other to give way. Agree early who decides what, and take turns.

Gana is under half. Your pace and way of reacting differ: one is quick, the other slow to answer, and neither is wrong. Agree on a gentle way to pause a heated talk.

Bhakoot, the guna of household and prosperity, is under half. The usual grounds for relief do not apply here, so it stays an area to be careful about. Plan the household together, and keep your money talks regular.

Kabir has Mangal dosha, which means extra drive and directness in a close partnership, asking for patience and room for each other. Ananya has it too, and hers is read as lighter because Jupiter stands with her Mars or looks at it. With Mars in both charts, many traditions read the two as balancing, each one's drive meeting a similar drive, so the concern is eased. Two strong wills still do well with clear ways to pause and to share decisions.

Last, remember that your two birth charts weigh more than this score, which compares only your Moons.

The two of you

Kabir, your rising sign is Meena. It gives you a gentle, modest and generous nature and a good memory for kindness. Your Moon sits in Kumbha, in Dhanishtha nakshatra. That makes you independent, loyal to friends, fond of music and rhythm, and able to work long without tiring. The texts read life with this Moon as rising and falling by turns, and letting close people see your softer side balances it.

Jupiter is your strongest planet: you grow by learning, and by teaching what you learn. People bring you their questions, and you answer with real faith that things can be put right. The Moon is the least strong planet in your chart. It is read as the mind and its moods, so a steady rhythm to your days counts for a lot.

Ananya, your rising sign is Makara. You are persistent and hardworking, and once you take a task up you carry it through. The texts note slow starts and a reserved manner, and allowing yourself rest and enjoyment is the skill to build. Your Moon sits in Meena, in Purva Bhadrapada nakshatra. You are sensitive, imaginative and gentle in speech, and you can win over people who start out unfriendly, though a short temper shows now and then. Your birth star adds clear speech and a skill for earning.

The Sun is your strongest planet, so self-respect matters to you. You do better with real responsibility than with a vague role. Its shadow is a quick sting at small slights, so take the lead where it is offered and let the rest pass. Mercury is the least strong planet in your chart, yet your mind is quick and your words carry weight. Its shadow is overthinking a choice already made.

Where your natures meet, the two charts say some things alike.

Both of you carry Jupiter's voice. In Kabir it is his rising sign and his strongest planet. In Ananya it is her Moon sign and her birth star, so friends come to her for a fair and honest word.

Both of you feel the moods around you. Kabir tends to soak them up, and clear boundaries are the skill for him to build. Ananya feels what others feel, and regular solitude and clear limits keep her from getting tired.

Both of you carry Saturn's steady note. Kabir's Moon and Sun sit in Saturn's sign, so he takes duty seriously and prefers a steady routine to a quick win. Ananya's rising sign belongs to Saturn, which gives her endurance and a sense of duty.

And for both of you, truthfulness, a sense of duty and respect for teachers and elders come naturally.

Where your charts meet

The old practice is to lay one chart over the other and see where they touch. Yours touch in two places.

The warm one first. The planet that stands for a spouse in Ananya's chart, her Moon, sits in Kabir's rising sign. This is read as Ananya's picture of a partner finding a home in Kabir, a sense of recognition between you. It is a second view that sits beside the rest, not a verdict.

The second touch is weightier. Ananya's Saturn sits very close to Kabir's Moon. This is read as duty, steadiness and weight: a bond that takes itself seriously and lasts through effort. Kabir may sometimes feel held back or judged. So speak plainly, and lighten things with rest you take together.

Then there is the weight that comes from outside. Kabir's chart gives thin backing to marriage, and that is read as the partnership carrying more load. This means the pressure comes from outside the two of you, not that the bond is fragile. A shared routine, kept by both of you, is what helps here.

The day you married

You married on 26 November 2019, at Jaipur in Rajasthan. Without the time the pheras began, the wedding kundli cannot be drawn, so I read the day itself, from sunrise to the next sunrise. With the pheras time, we could draw the wedding kundli as well.

The day was a Tuesday by sunrise. The old texts do not choose Tuesday for a wedding, so take it as a point to be careful about, not a verdict.

The day held two nakshatras. Vishakha ran until about 09:22, and it is not one of the eleven stars the texts ask for in a wedding, so it is another point of care. Anuradha took over from about 09:22. It is one of the eleven, and that is a supporting check.

The tithi also changed. Amavasya, the new-moon day, ran until about 20:35, and the texts leave it out for weddings. Shukla Pratipada followed from about 20:35, and the texts accept it for the rite.

Now each of you against the day. The tara counts the day's star against a birth star, to see whether the day lifts the person. For Kabir, the tara was Vipat while Vishakha ran and Kshema once Anuradha came, both read as favourable. Chandra bala, the Moon's strength for a person that day, was strong for Kabir all through. Ravi shuddhi, the old test of the Sun's strength for a wedding, also held for him.

For Ananya, the tara was Janma while Vishakha ran, which is read as neutral, and Sampat once Anuradha came, a favourable one. Her chandra bala was neutral at first and strong later. Jupiter that day stood in a middling place from Ananya's Moon. The tradition's help for this is Jupiter's worship, such as a Thursday habit, optional and never needed.

On the day itself, Kabir was in his Jupiter–Venus stretch, a testing one, and Ananya in her Mercury–Venus stretch, a strong one.

Read all of this beside your two birth charts, never over them; where they differ, the birth charts weigh more.

The years together

Kabir is in his long Jupiter mahadasha, from September 2011 to September 2027. It is a supported period that asks him to grow into the room he is given: study, teach, and say yes to the larger version of his life. Inside it runs his Jupiter–Rahu antardasha, from May 2025 to September 2027. This is a mixed stretch in which spending tends to leak, so keep a buffer and decide loans and large purchases slowly.

Ananya is in her Mercury mahadasha, from August 2014 to August 2031, which has both sides. It asks her to sort signal from chatter: pick two ideas and finish those. Inside it runs her Mercury–Jupiter antardasha, from September 2026 to December 2028, a testing stretch that asks the same care with money. So for now the two of you are asked for the same thing at once: a buffer, and no borrowing on impulse.

July 2036 to September 2037

In these months Ananya is in a strong stretch, while Kabir goes through a testing one. Ananya's Ketu–Saturn stretch is good for money and for herself, a time to start what has been waiting. Kabir's Saturn–Venus stretch asks him to keep money simple and big decisions slow, since patient work in such a stretch tends to hold. So Ananya carries more of the household and the cheer, and Kabir is helped by being asked for less; say so aloud, and swap roles once it passes.

Saturn over both Moons. From November 2026 to February 2028, Saturn moves over both your Moons at once: for Kabir it is the setting phase of Sade Sati, and for Ananya its peak. It is slow and demanding for each of you, with effort and expenses feeling heavier, and shared routine, patience and simple plans are the support, so neither of you carries it alone. From August 2029 to April 2030, Saturn again stands over both your Moons at once. It is the same as before: a slow stretch, eased by the same shared routine, patience and simple plans.

Planets you share. From November 2026 to September 2027, both of you run periods of Jupiter, so its day and its simple habits suit being kept together. From December 2028 to October 2030, the planet you share is Saturn, and its day and habits are good to keep the same way. From October 2030 to August 2031, it is Mercury, again as a gentle shared practice and never a duty.

Money, home and children

Money first. Both your charts call money a strong suit that rewards steady habits. Both also grade wealth as modest, which is a grade and not a sum: savings are built on purpose rather than arriving on their own. A fixed saving each month lifts that grade over the years.

Kabir's chart asks him to keep speculation small, decided in writing, with a limit set before he begins. It also asks for a buffer against sudden swings, and a careful read of every shared or borrowed money agreement. His spending tends to outrun saving, so a monthly limit, with savings moved aside first, keeps it in line.

Ananya's chart reads gains that come in bursts, so set part of each gain aside first. Her money also comes and goes irregularly, so simple records and a buffer keep it settled. In the present Saturn stretch, both charts add the same: trim what is not needed, and do not lend or borrow on impulse.

As a pair, you bring two hands to money. Kabir's chart gives a comfortable family life and a love of good things, with steady saving as the skill to build. Ananya builds resources slowly, with thrift and patience. Her birth star reads her as trusting her partner with the household's money.

Home next. Kabir's chart, counted the usual way, leans to one home of his own, reached through steady saving. Ananya's chart, counted the same way, leans to two to three homes, plots or properties over a lifetime. Both are leanings, never a promise. For Kabir, feeling settled at home takes time, so be gentle with yourself. Ananya brings warmth and energy to the home, and giving it structure is her skill to build.

Children last. Kabir's chart leans to one or two children. Ananya's chart, read on its own, also leans to one or two. Both charts read a later start, after some patience, and not a no. From April 2037 to September 2037, Jupiter's passage is read as a season open for children, if you want them, while Ananya runs a strong stretch. It is a season, never a promise, and the choice is yours.

What helps the two of you

First, what you can keep together. The three planets you share, Jupiter, Saturn and Mercury, each have one list below, to be kept side by side in their shared season. For the household, the tradition's help is a practice done together, such as prayer or giving side by side. It is optional and never a promise.

Jupiter, kept together in its shared season.

Upaay

- Set a fixed time each week to learn from someone or teach someone, and show respect to elders in small, visible ways.
- Thursday is Jupiter's day. If it feels natural to you, light a lamp to Brihaspati or Vishnu and say "Om Brihaspataye Namah" 108 times, or 11 if short of time.
- If you wish to give, offer chana dal, turmeric or yellow sweets to a teacher or student on a Thursday; give what you can spare.
- Lal Kitab adds a prayer to Hari (Vishnu), if it feels natural, and some chana dal for someone who needs a meal.
- Stone: for Kabir, yellow sapphire, if he wishes to wear one; never needed. For Ananya, no stone is needed for this one.

Saturn, kept together in its shared season.

Upaay

- Be on time, do the slow, plain task first, and pay anyone who works for you promptly and politely.
- Saturday is Saturn's day. If it feels natural to you, light a lamp to Shani Dev and say "Om Shanaishcharaya Namah" 108 times, or 11.

- If you wish to give, offer black sesame, mustard oil or a blanket on a Saturday to someone who works with their hands; give what you can spare.
- Lal Kitab adds some whole urad for someone who needs a meal, and a piece of roti from your own meal for the crows.
- Stone: for Kabir, no stone is needed for this one. For Ananya, blue sapphire, if she wishes to wear one; never needed.

Mercury, kept together in its shared season.

Upaay

- Read for ten minutes a day, write plans down, and answer messages at set times.
- Wednesday is Mercury's day. If it feels natural to you, pray to Vishnu or Ganesha and say "Om Budhaya Namah" 108 times, or 11.
- If you wish to give, offer whole moong or green vegetables to a young learner on a Wednesday; give what you can spare.
- Lal Kitab adds, for Ananya, the Durga path if it feels natural, and some whole moong for someone who needs a meal.
- Stone: for Kabir, no stone is needed for this one. For Ananya, emerald, if she wishes to wear one; never needed.

Kabir

Your running Jupiter mahadasha and your coming Saturn one are both in the shared lists above. Your running antardasha belongs to Rahu, and this list is your own.

Upaay

- Keep one screen-free hour each day, and wait a day before any big, sudden spend or decision.
- Many keep Saturday for Rahu. If it feels natural to you, pray to Durga and say "Om Rahave Namah" 108 times, or 11.
- If you wish to give, offer black gram, black sesame or a blanket on a Saturday to someone in need; give what you can spare.
- Lal Kitab adds a few radishes or a little mustard seed for someone who needs it.
- No stone is needed for this one.

Ananya

Your running Mercury mahadasha, your Jupiter antardasha and your coming Saturn stretch are all in the shared lists above. So what you keep with Kabir is your own upaay too. Mercury's daily reading habit suits you well, since Mercury leads the years you are in.

Your questions

You asked when is a good time for the two of you to buy a home. Your charts give dated windows for home and property, each one's own. Here they are, in the order the charts give them.

Kabir's windows:

- October 2030 to June 2033, his Saturn–Mercury stretch, a lighter window for home, as no stronger period falls in that span.
- September 2046 to February 2049, his Mercury–Mercury stretch, which carries extra weight because Jupiter and Saturn both bear on home then.
- February 2050 to December 2052, his Mercury–Venus stretch, with Venus as a natural sign of home.

Ananya's windows:

- March 2034 to July 2034, her Ketu–Mars stretch.
- August 2044 to October 2045, her Venus–Mars stretch.

Closer in, Ananya's chart puts home and property most in focus from June 2027 to October 2027, when Jupiter and Saturn both bear on it. From June 2027, Saturn also asks her for more patience in matters of home.

Kabir's chart reads September 2026 to December 2027 as a handover between his main periods. It asks the two of you to avoid fresh large commitments then where you can, and to keep a buffer.

Three things to keep

1. Kabir, keep a teacher of your own, and say no to what you cannot keep.
2. Ananya, decide on paper, and then let the choice rest instead of reopening it.
3. Together, make clear agreements, keep your commitments steady and speak plainly with each other.

May the years ahead find the two of you patient with each other, and glad of each other.
